Students Taught By Experienced Faculty

Students at Worthington High School are taught by an excellent group of teachers in all fields of study; fifty per cent of the sixty-three teachers have obtained Master's Degrees. Most of the versatile teachers not only are prepared to teach more than one subject, but they also help with extra-curricular activities such as supervising clubs, coaching, and helping students after classes. The non-teaching staff also plays a very important part in the school system; this group includes eight janitors, eighteen special teachers, six cooks, five office workers, and three principals.

ACADEMICS

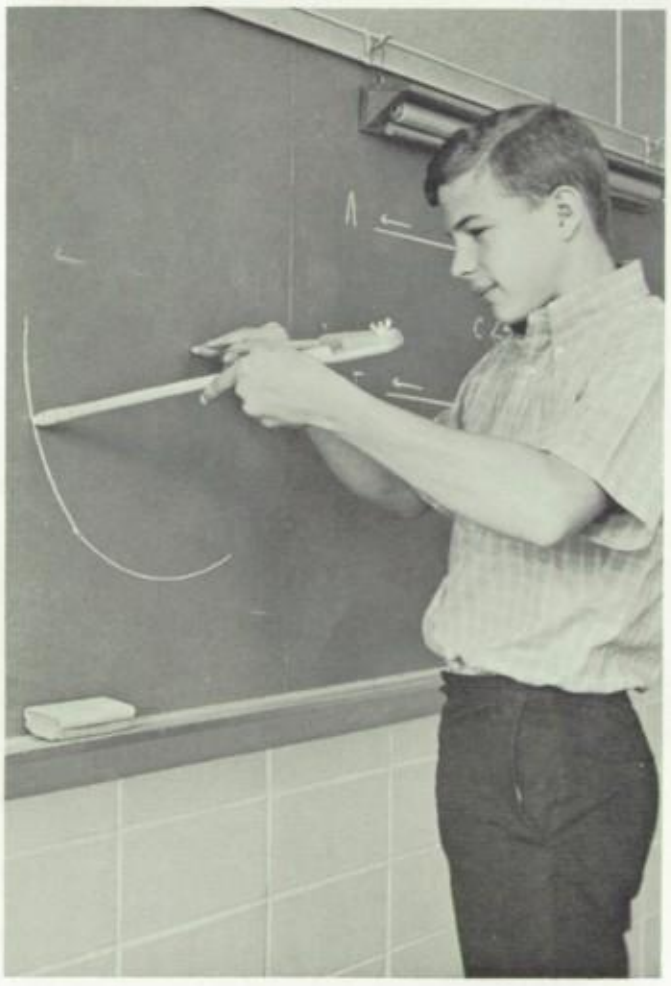
A highlight for the seniors in English was the preparing and performing of monologues, as P. Cole and K. Green demonstrate.

ART DEPARTMENT — A student with artistic talent may express himself through many media. Due to its expanded facilities the Art Department new offers instruction in sculpturing, painting, pottery and jewelry making, or commercial, product, fashion, interior, or batik designing.

ENGLISH DEPARTMENT — During the past school year the English Department made efforts to co-ordinate instruction on all levels. Meeting with elementary and junior-high representatives, members of the staff served on a steering committee for the purpose of observing the language-arts program from the kindergarten through the twelve grades at Worthington. In February the high school English staff attended a workshop in which they discussed new techniques for instruction in language and composition and suggested methods for promoting creativity in the classroom.

PHYSICAL EDUCATION DEPARTMENT — The Physical Education Department offers all students a large variety of physical activities designed to promote physical fitness. Boys not involved in a current seasonal sport may participate in basketball, wrestling, track, cross-country and a number of other sports during class periods. Girls participate in basketball, volleyball, field hockey, and tennis, as well as track and cross-country. Junior and senior girls study fencing. Many girls give their free time to participate in intermural and intramural seasonal sports.

THE FOREIGN LANGUAGE DEPARTMENT stresses the importance of a student's ability to express himself in a foreign language. Students of French emphasize the continuity and smoothness of interpretation. The Spanish classes make extensive use of records and tapes to promote better understanding of the language. Latin and German classes emphasize translation for use in reading professional literature. The foreign language students are fortunate in that most of the language teachers have studied in the country or countries whose language they teach.



THE MATH DEPARTMENT offers six courses for all students: General Math, Algebra I, Geometry, Algebra II, Math IV, Shop Math, and Refresher Math. In order to meet the needs of the students, five different forms of geometry have been adopted: regular, enriched, accelerated, informal, and teemac geometry. Many of the other math classes are also beginning to adopt different levels of study.

THE SCIENCE DEPARTMENT is adopting different teaching methods in several of its courses. This year the Physical Science Study Committee, a new approach to physics, involving extensive laboratory investigation, was adopted experimentally and the Chemical Bond Approach, a chemistry course for select students, was made a permanent part of the curriculum. Other courses offered by the Science Department are biology, advanced biology, earth science, and, for non-science majors, physical science.

Boys taking shop may use the many facilities in the industrial arts lab to study electrical engineering, metal work, wood work, printing, and a number of other practical skills.

Courses taught in General Home Economics, offered to seniors only, consist of sewing, cooking, interior decorating, child development, and home management.

THE COMMERCIAL DEPARTMENT has expanded due to the increasing interest of students in business and administration. A new teacher has joined the staff and the department has acquired a larger classroom and new teaching facilities. Students interested in a business career are offered such courses as bookkeeping, notehand, personal typing, shorthand, and business procedures.

THE SOCIAL STUDIES DEPARTMENT is undergoing extensive change. Social Studies IV, offered to all seniors, now involves studies of economics, the theories of Communism, and other factors which affect our government. Social studies seminar, a course which gives interested seniors an opportunity to do individual research, has been added to the curriculum. The department has added to its teaching facilities a telecommunications telephone, by means of which entire classes may participate in conversations with specialists in the field which they are studying.

Any student who wishes to develop his understanding of music and its interpretation is eligible for membership in the Mixed Chorus which performs for concerts during the year.

The choir, directed by Mr. Joel Haney, is a select group of sophomores, juniors, and seniors. During the year these students prepared for such productions as the Christmas and Spring concerts. The choir's major undertaking is the operetta, in which only choir members may participate.

Marching Band Increases Enthusiasm Of Spectators

Perhaps the most widely-known musical group at Worthington High School is the Marching Band. The band performs during half-time at football games and this year used such themes as politics and patriotism. The precision drilling exhibited by the band as well as the spirit of its music add greatly to the enthusiasm expressed by the spectators at the football games. The band also presents several concerts during the year; among these are the Winter Concert and the Spring Spectacular.

The Drum Major, Randy Headley, leads the band during drills and is responsible for achieving and maintaining precision in drill formations. The Drum Major is a valuable assistant to the director and commands a great deal of respect from members of the band.

Starting lettermen for most of the games were Bruce Baxter, Gary Yerian, Frank Vavrock, Bob Hill and John Savage. Superb teamwork helped pull the boys through many rough spots this season.

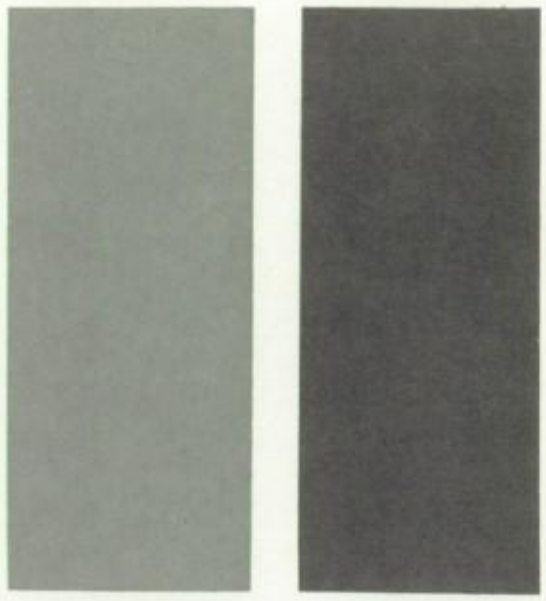
Chris Murray

Like other students, Chris enjoys eating lunch in the company of her many friends.



Hockey is one of her favorites.

"The thing I like most about American schools," says Chris Murray, our American Field Service student from Manchester, England, "is the tremendous school spirit. I love to go to all the sports events and hear everyone cheer." Chris likes to participate in many sports, but her favorites are hockey and tennis. Most of Chris' interests center around her musical talent. She is a member of choir and orchestra and was featured as a dancer in the operetta, Camelot. She was chosen by the student body to reign at this year's Halloween festivities.

Living at the house of Ann Whinery, Chris will have to take her senior year again when she returns to England. She hopes to have a career in some area of music.

All ends well, as the elderly lady marries the Lord High Executioner of Titipu and ends her pursuit. The operetta was directed by Mr. Haney and Miss Hottenroth.

For the first time the Cardinal Queen Dance and the Christmas Formal were combined as one dance on December 19, 1964. The theme was "White Christmas" and Anne Hill reigned as the Cardinal Queen. From candidates chosen by the student body, six judges selected Anne to be crowned Cardinal Queen, basing their decision on such qualities as personality, poise, and appearance. Tim Gordon, Cardinal business manager, crowned and kissed Queen Anne; and Meg Schultz, last year's queen, gave the traditional Queen's bracelet to Anne.

Juniors Worked For Months To Give Evening In Paris

Students entering the gym on May 9, 1964, were surprised to see not the familiar surroundings, but a fairyland created by members of the Junior Class for the prom, "Paris in Springtime." The lobby was graced by a fluffy pink Eiffel Tower and gardens with bubbling fountains and picturesque brick walks. Inside the gymnasium, couples found themselves on a wide avenue, bordered by small shops and colorful cafes. Geraniums and violets bloomed everywhere and couples walked beneath the branches of several weeping cherry trees. The scene was dominated by a majestic replica of the Arch of Triumph. The balcony, used this year for the first time, served as another cafe, giving a lovely view of the main floor and providing additional room for dancing. Anne Hill served as prom chairman and Mrs. Provost, Mr. Dayton, and Mr. Mainwaring were advisors.

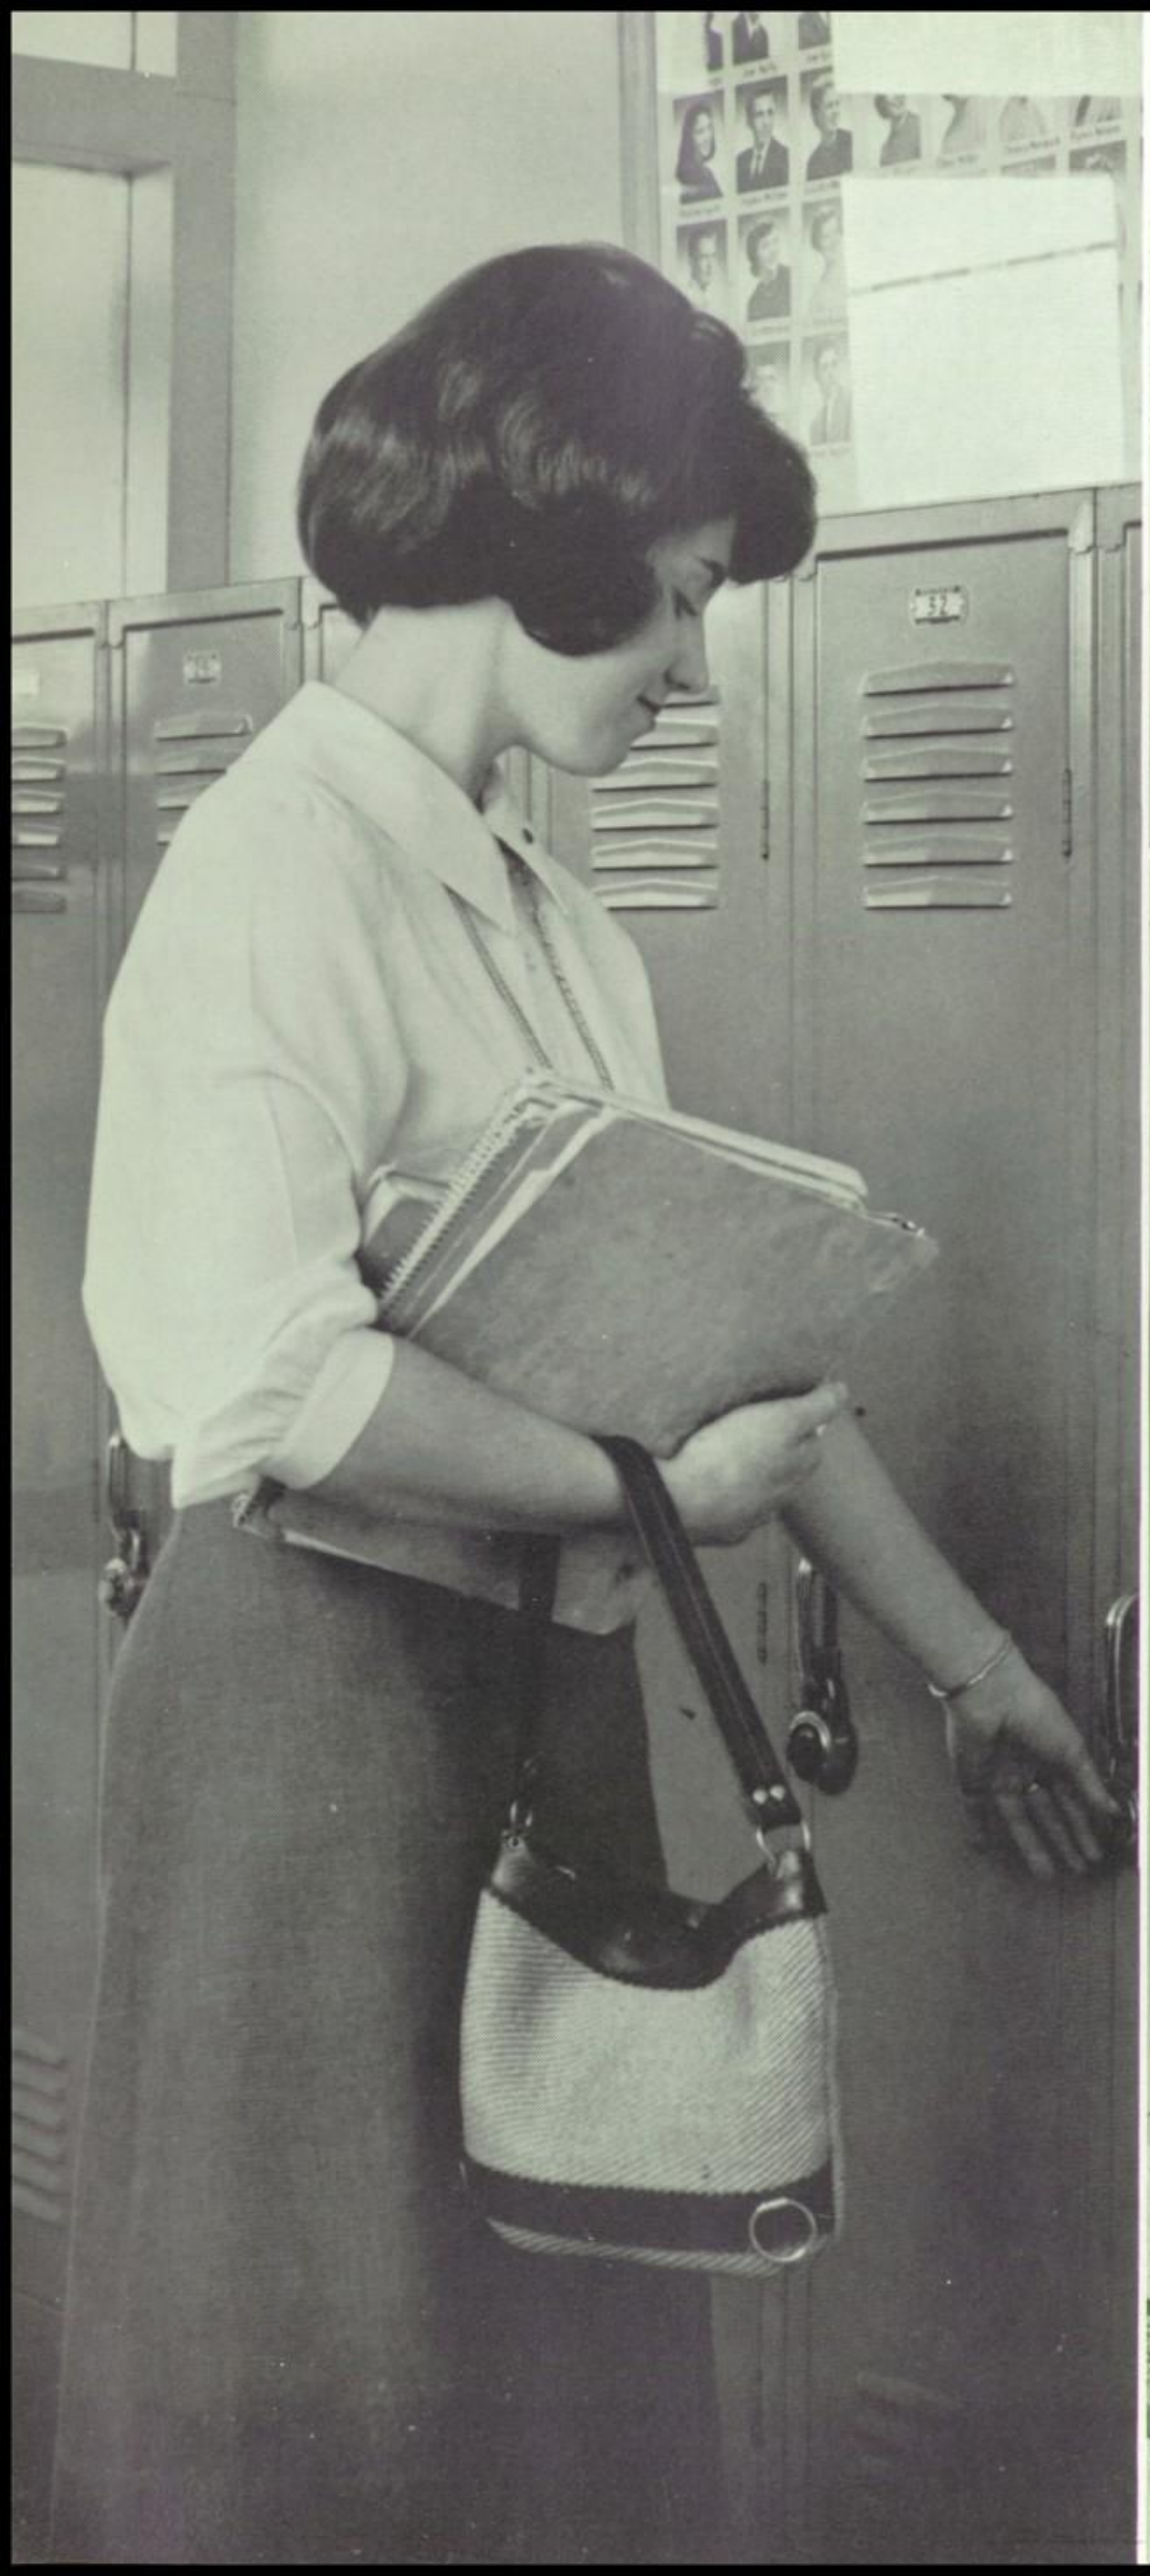
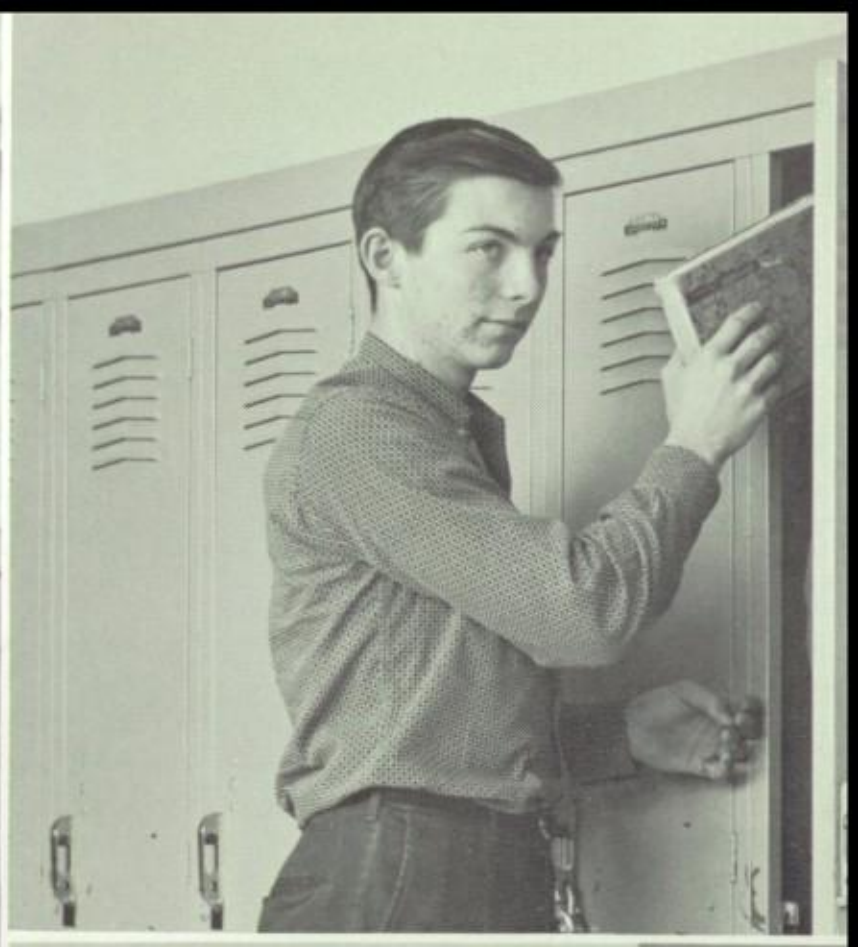
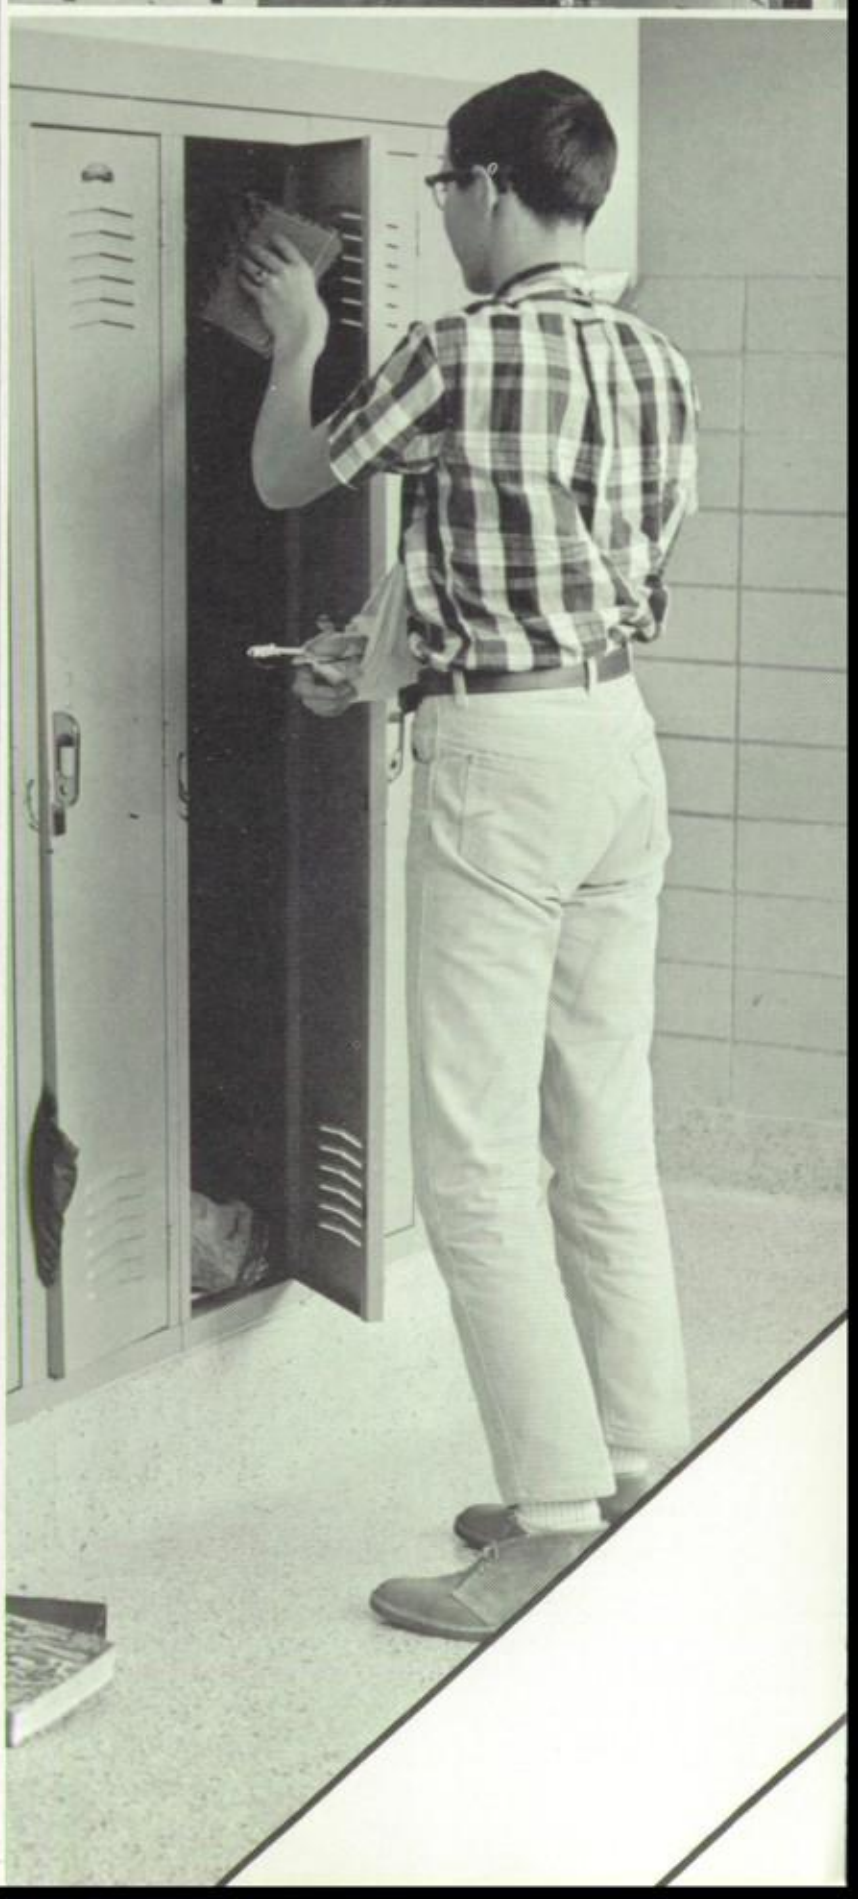
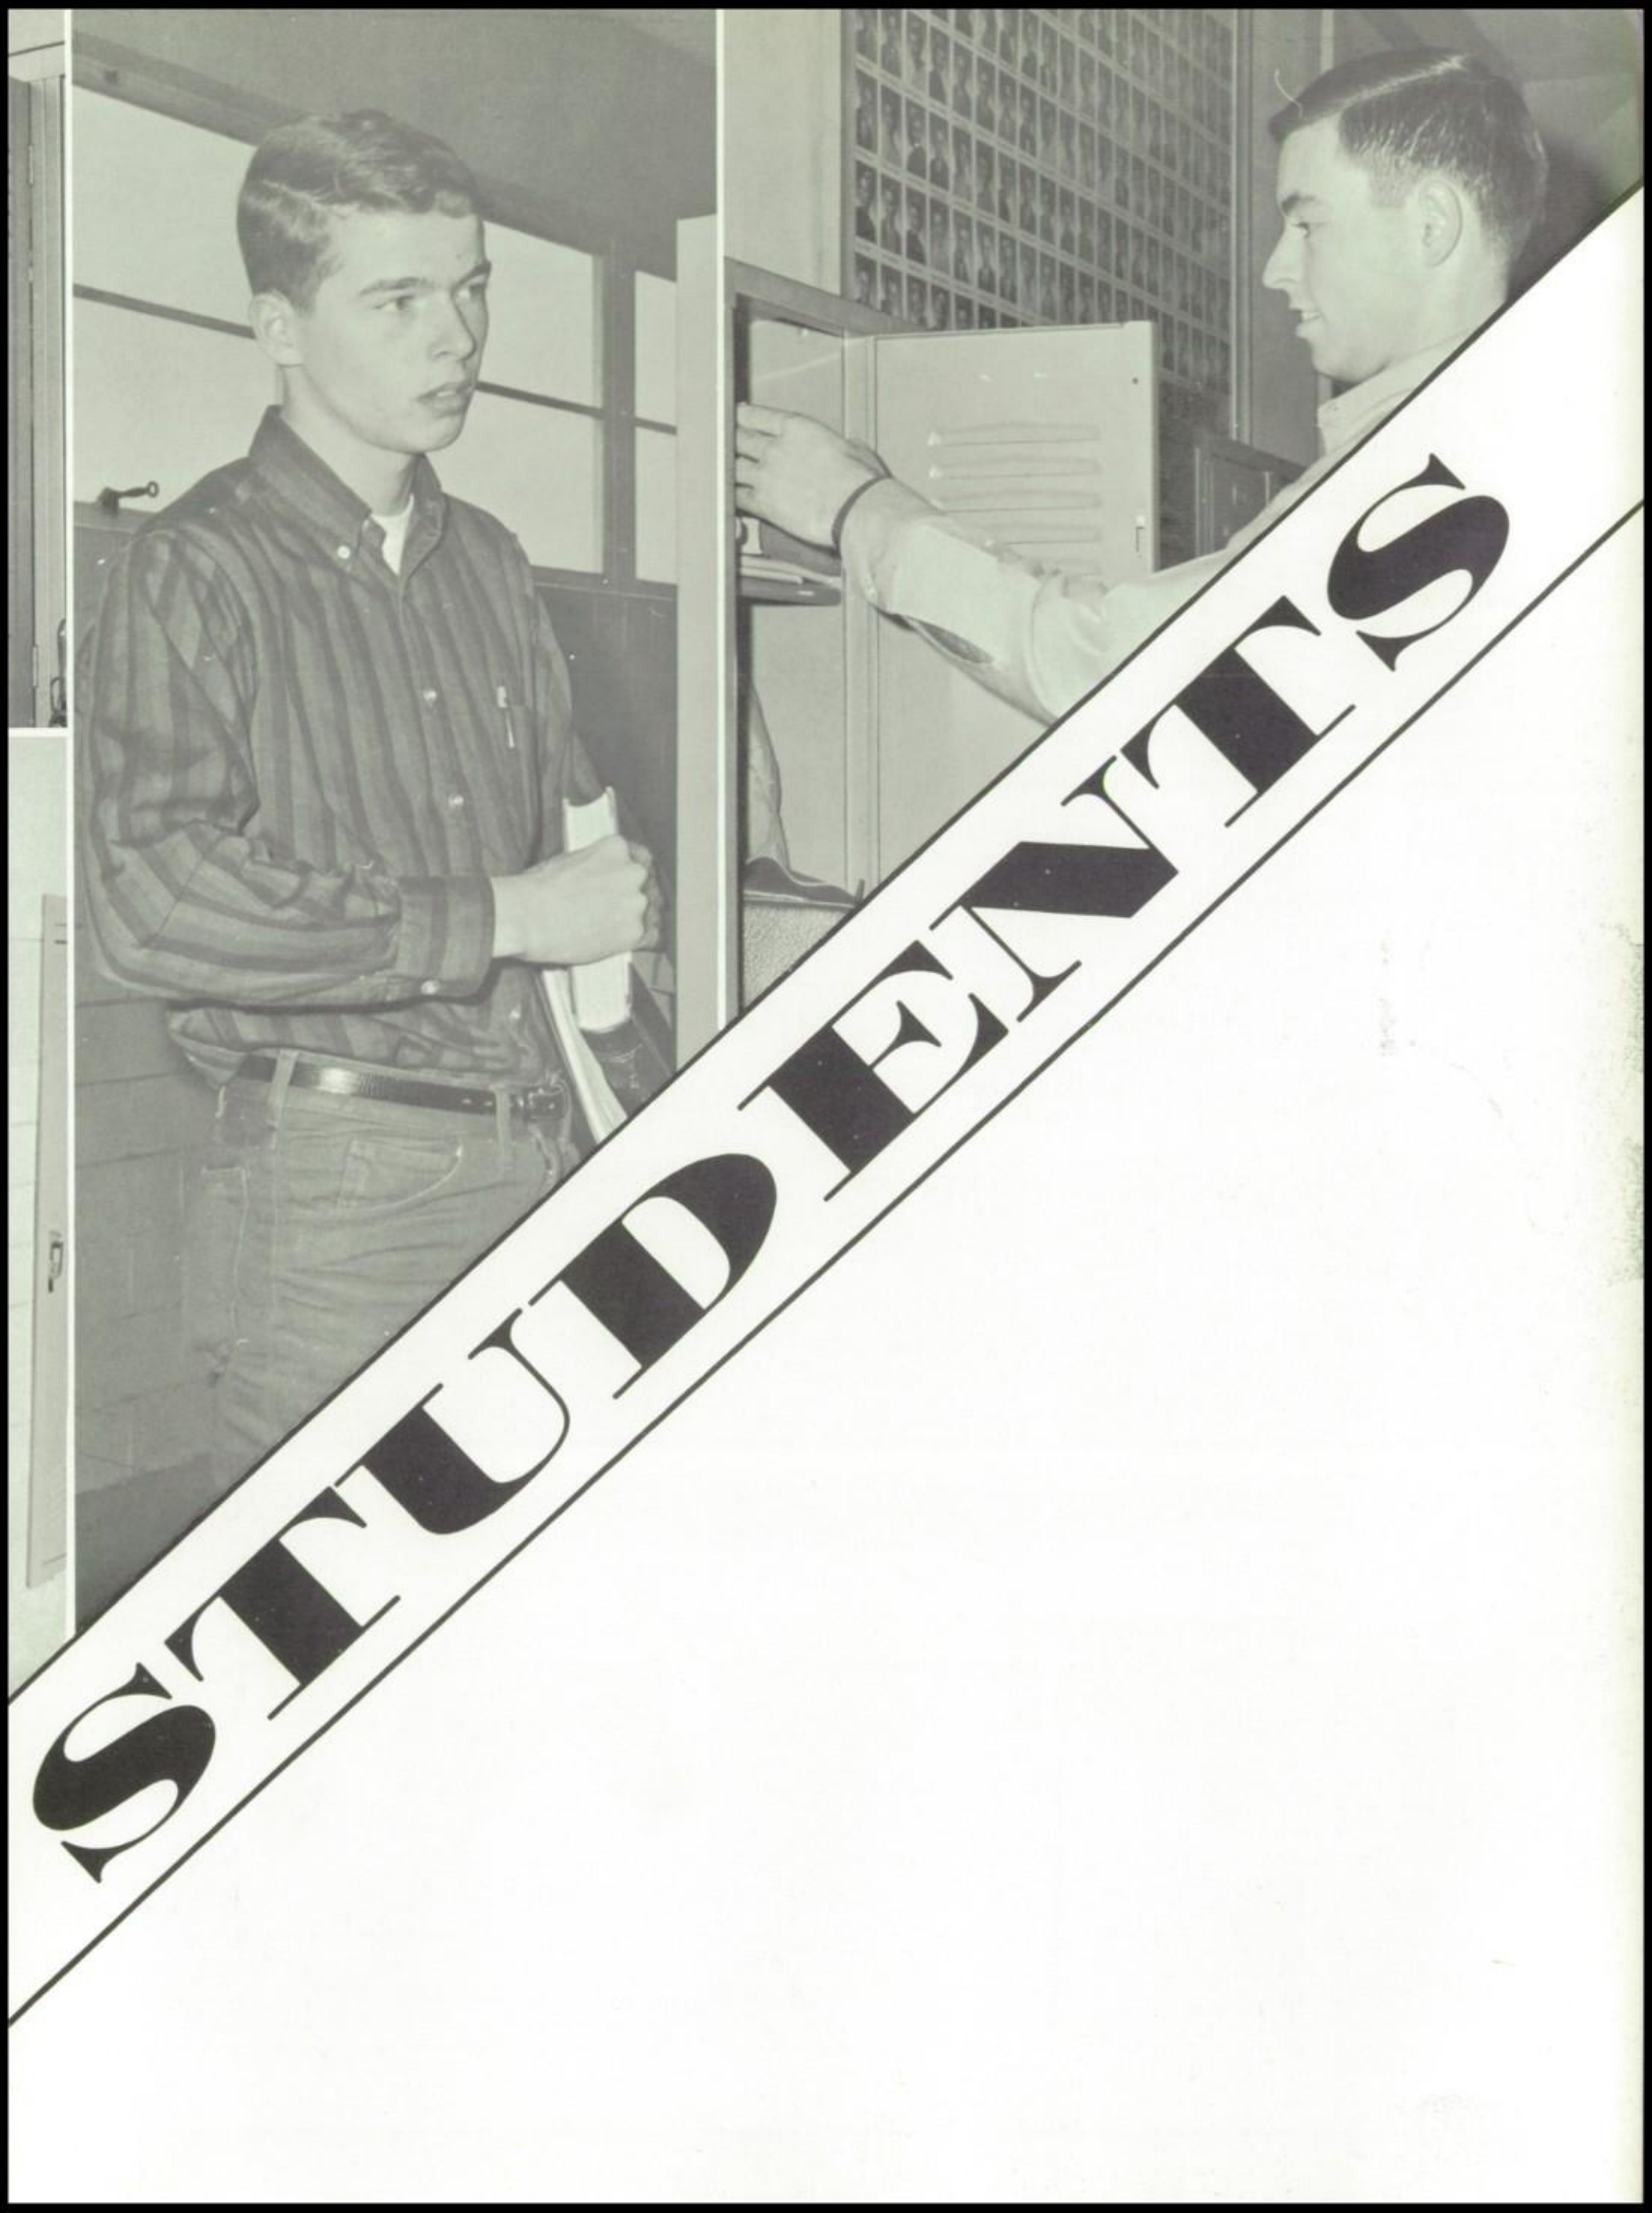
The court, chosen by the track squad, presented the awards to the winners of each event. Worthington placed fourth among the many teams that participated in the meet.









STUDENTS

With the issuing of this yearbook we realize that the high school days of Class '65 are coming to an end. After four years of close association, our class will depart, each individual to his own chosen way. There is a feeling of sadness in this thought, but with it the certainty that the pleasant surroundings and busy halls of Worthington High School will remain. Should we return some day, we hope to find the same group of dedicated men and women who gave guidance and encouragement to our search of knowledge.

Alan McLaughlin

Under the worthy leadership of the class officers, the Senior Class, with three hundred and forty members, was able to raise sufficient funds for the treasury. Projects included sponsoring pool parties, canteens, smorgasbords, and films for the public. OFFICERS: Bob Judson, Vice-President; Pam Orthoefer, Secretary; Alan McLaughlin, President; Judy Bennett, Treasurer.

The Junior Class prides itself on having established a close relationship between the officers and the rest of the class. Through newsletters, class referendums, and class meetings, we have given every interested class member an opportunity to be informed. We hope our policies will serve as an example to succeeding classes. If so, we will have accomplished a great deal.

Under the able supervision of its class officers, the Junior Class spent much of the year conducting projects to raise money for their treasury. Among these projects were participation in the school-wide magazine drive, a pancake supper during the Christmas holiday, and several canteens. The money netted from these projects they used to finance their major undertaking of the year, the Junior-Senior Prom. After choosing a theme, the juniors, under the supervision of the class advisors, spent many weeks making decorations and planning the small details which combined to make the Prom a great success.

The past year has been a very prosperous and eventful year for the class of 1967. Our treasury was increased by a substantial amount as we participated in several projects. During the year we held a pool party and canteen, won the Halloween float contest and participated in the Cardinal Booster membership drive. Due mainly to our class spirit and cooperation all were very successful. This marks the end of our underclass years. As we become upperclassmen, we will have more activities and added responsibilities. With the continuing cooperation and class spirit, we will accept the responsibilities ahead, and make our four years at this high school a pleasant and rewarding experience.

When the freshmen entered Worthington High School in September 1964, they knew many tasks faced them. Some of these were learning to find their places in high school, fining a means to finance social projects, and attempting to enter into the school's athletic activities. The class sponsored a car wash and entered a float in the annual Jaycee Halloween Parade, winning second place in the contest. Another fund-raising activity was a canteen following a basketball game.
